| COMPLAINT NUMBER | 22/045 |
| ADVERTISER | Voices for Freedom |
| ADVERTISEMENT | Voices for Freedom, Out of Home |
| DATE OF MEETING | 14 February 2022 |
| OUTCOME | No Grounds to Proceed |

Advertisement: The Voices for Freedom billboard shows an image of the Prime Minister, Rt Hon Jacinda Ardern smiling. Text in a red banners states, "On creating two classes of people" and a quote attributed to Ardern which says, "That is what it is - so, yep, yep". The URL voicesforfreedom.co.nz is shown at the bottom, with the Voices for Freedom logo on the left-hand side.

The Chair ruled there were no grounds for the complaint to proceed.

Complaint: These billboards that are found in Wellington CBD are, frankly, disgusting I don't think there's any defence against this whatsoever and I'm appalled that these are even permitted as advertisements in the public space. The second billboard is clearly also promoting anti-vaccine rhetoric.

The relevant provisions were Advertising Standards Code - Principle 1, Principle 2.

ADVERTISING STANDARDS CODE

Principle 1: Social Responsibility: Advertisements must be prepared and placed with a due sense of social responsibility to consumers and to society.

Principle 2: Truthful Presentation: Advertisements must be truthful, balanced and not misleading.

The Chair confirmed the Voices for Freedom billboard advertisement is an advocacy advertisement under the Advertising Standards Code. She noted that advocacy advertising presents some of the most challenging advertising adjudicated on by the Complaints Board.

It is usually characterised by parties having differing views that are expressed in robust terms. This results in strong objections from complainants and an equally strong defence from advertisers.

Through the requirements of the Advertising Standards Codes of Practice and the Advocacy Principles, the Board supports issues being openly debated and have endeavoured not to apply a technical or unduly strict interpretation of the rules and guidelines.

Complainants sometimes ask the Board to in effect decide which side in an advocacy debate is correct. The Complaints Board has consistently declined to have a view on the merits of either side in an advocacy debate. The Complaints Board's only role is to determine whether there has been a breach of our Codes.

Under Rule 2(e) of the Advertising Standards Code:

- The identity of the advertiser must be clear.
- Opinion must be clearly distinguishable from factual information, and
- Factual information must be able to be substantiated.

In considering the advertisement and the complaint before her, the Chair acknowledged the protection for freedom of expression in the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990. She also noted the rapidly evolving nature of the COVID-19 pandemic. Taking these exceptional circumstances into account, she confirmed she would take a higher-level approach to the assessment of this advertising, based on the Principles in the Advertising Standards Code which are the requirements for social responsibility and truthful presentation in responsible advertising.

The Chair acknowledged the Complainant's sincere concerns the billboard is "clearly also promoting anti-vaccine rhetoric".

The Chair said the likely consumer takeout of the billboard advertisement is that Voices for Freedom, an advocacy organisation opposed to vaccine and mask mandates and other Government COVID-19 requirements, is drawing attention to the Prime Minister's response to a question about whether the traffic light system created two different classes of people in New Zealand.

The Chair confirmed the identity of the Advertiser was clear and the advertisement included a website address. The Chair said the Advertiser had used the billboard to draw attention to its view of a negative outcome of the traffic light system, using a quote from the Prime Minister, with her image.

The Chair said the advertisement did not meet the threshold to breach the Advertising Standards Code requirements for social responsibility and truthful presentation under Principles 1 and 2. This is because the advertisement clearly presents information that supports the Advertiser's view. It considers the traffic light system which has different rules for people who are vaccinated and those who are not, creates two different classes of people. The Chair confirmed the quote on the billboard from the Prime Minister was reported in the media.

The Chair ruled the advertisement was not in breach of Principles 1 and 2 of the Advertising Standards Code and there were no grounds for the Complaint to proceed.

Chair's Ruling: Complaint No Grounds to Proceed
